

PRESERVING HISTORIC PLACES

Indiana's Statewide Preservation
Conference

Madison

October 22-25, 2024

CALL FOR SESSION PROPOSALS

In 2024, Indiana's preservation conference takes place in Madison, a town rich in nineteenth-century architecture and heritage that provided a hub for industry, commerce, the Underground Railroad, and transportation. As a pilot community for the national Main Street program in 1979, Madison remains a living laboratory in the use of historic preservation for community revitalization and economic development.

We encourage proposals that highlight Main Street successes, heritage tourism, and the development and role of local preservation commissions. We also invite session proposals concerning innovative approaches to preservation and the use of cutting-edge technology in saving and restoring Indiana landmarks of any age.

PRESENTER BENEFITS

Speakers and panelists receive complimentary conference registration and hotel accommodations. Speakers from outside Indiana may also be eligible for transportation reimbursement and an honorarium.

Do you have an idea for an education session, field session or hands-on workshop?
